The speaker Mr. Chetan B C, was introduced to the students in the audience by a student of the department. Students also volunteered to promote the culture of the state with a rendition of the Naadageethe. The speaker, an alumnus of the department, started the session by asking students to explain research in their own understanding. Using the responses from the students, the speaker began his seminar. With the aid of his PowerPoint presentation, he explained the basic components of research, the need for it, the importance of research, and the structure of conducting research.

A Hungarian-born biochemist, Mr Albert Szent Gyorgyi believed that, “Research is to see what everyone else has seen, and to think what nobody else has thought”. The Department of Humanities, Ramaiah College of Arts, Science and Commerce firmly believes in imbibing the zest for research in the young minds of our undergraduate students.

Research is the systematic investigation into and study of materials and sources in order to establish facts and reach new conclusions. The word research is derived from the Middle French “recherche”, which means “to go about seeking”, the term itself being derived from the Old French term “recherchier” a compound word from “re-“ + “cerchier”, or “searcher”, meaning ‘search’.

Through the presentation, students were provided with an insight about the process involved in writing a research paper. With recollections of some case studies, the researcher articulated the importance for research and the quest to find information. The speaker termed research as “A way to happiness”. Further, the students were exposed to the basic elements, the format, the structure and types of research. The seminar included a Question-and-Answer session where the students were able to clarify their understanding of the topic of discussion. The event was complemented by classical dance and singing performances by the students. The lecture was instrumental in leading the students to gain an introductory understanding of the research paper writing process.
