The students were invited to submit original technical papers. Early project works from students were also invited to be presented at the conference. The conference featured a presentation of high quality research papers. This flagship conference of IEEE Sub Section will feature a comprehensive technical program including paper presentations. The aim of the conference was to provide a platform for the brightest students to present and share their ideas, discuss recent developments with like-minded peers and interact with eminent researchers & academicians. SLCETA- 2022 is a multi- disciplinary conference covering a range of tracks and topics from Computer Science.

Duration of the conference was one day with 2 technical sessions, The topics covered in the sessions are as fallow,

- Technical session one:

1. Quantum computing
2. Smart Devices.
3. Cloud Computing
4. IOT
5. Cyber security

- Technical session two:

1. Data warehousing
2. Block chain
3. Data mining
4. Image processing
5. Big Data Analytics.

10 papers were accepted . Students from our college and others participated and present their research papers in technical sessions. The students gained and shared new ideas They could Learn about the latest innovations and insights. The conference helped in team building.It helped the students to learn from others and improve their own skills and knowledge about their field. Conferences gave students the chance to practice skills in presentation and communication. Answering questions after presentation and chatting with other attendees helped to hone communications skills. Listening to and participating in lively discussions at conference gave new ideas, helped refine existing concepts, and even change the mind about some key issues in particular field.

Out of two technical sessions 3 papers are selected as first, second and 1 consolation paper. In the valedictory program the prizes and certificates were distributed and concluded the conference by vote of thanks.

Outcome: Improve presentation and communication skills. Engage in high-level debates and refine their ideas.
